ALDERMEN UNITED ON BOND ORDINANCE

Council Last Evening Authorizes
$30,000 Issue For Park Purposes on South Side.

The ordinance providing for a $30,000 bond issue for "park, street and boulevard purposes" was adopted by a unanimous vote of the common council last evening.

With a large crowd of spectators present, expecting a fight on the question, the aldermen passed the measure without even so much as discussing it. The clerk first read the proposed ordinance and the motion for its adoption was made by Alderman Schueller. Applause greeted the announcement of the result of the roll call.

The council, in authorizing the bond issue, has merely provided a fund for park purposes. What lands will be embraced in the park and the manner of their purchase will be settled later. A committee consisting of Aldermen McDonald, Playman and Schueller was appointed by the mayor to investigate the question further and to report at an adjourned meeting of the council on March 13.

Alderman Hyer mentioned the fact that the options secured on property in the vicinity of the Soo station, where the park will be located, expire on March 27. Alderman Schueller said he was of the opinion that the option prices were reasonable in some instances and exorbitant in others.

It is probable that condemnation proceedings will be instituted unless some of the prices are reduced.

The meeting opened with a full attendance of aldermen. The walls of an infant in the room adjoining the council chamber were explained by the mayor, who announced that the child had been brought to the meeting for the purpose of showing the aldermen an extreme case of hair-rip. He said the affliction could be corrected to a large extent by a specialist and expressed the hope that the council would later take action toward having an operation performed, as the parents of the child, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pionke, Clark street, are in poor circumstances. The child, eight months of age, was passed before the aldermen by a neighbor lady of the family and sympathy for the unfortunate little one was expressed in the faces of all who saw it.

The matter of the exemption from taxation of the property of the new St. Stanislaus Catholic congregation, presented by the trustees, was referred to the committee on illegal assessments.

A petition asking for the laying out of Briggs street between Union and Smith streets, where there is a break for a distance of 250 feet, was referred to the street committee to report on the estimated cost.

A resolution offered by Alderman Martin was adopted, providing for full pay for firemen and policemen for a period of thirty days during illness. After thirty days' lay-off the members of the departments will receive any sum that may remain from their salaries after the wages of substitutes are paid.

The street committee reported that bids for the repairs on the Clark street wagon bridge had been received and recommended that the contract be let to the Guarantee Construction Co. of Minneapolis. A resolution of Alderman Playman authorizing a contract with this company was carried, 8 to 4. Aldermen Myers, Manthey, McDonald and Schueller voting against. A spirited discussion, in which Aldermen McDonald and Playman were the leaders, the former expressing himself in favor of the city doing the work, took place before the matter was finally disposed of. Engineer Thompson, who was called upon, said he was of the opinion that the cost of the work would not exceed $9,000, using wood joists instead of steel.

Alderman Schueller, one of those who voted in favor of the resolution providing for a purchasing committee at the last meeting, offered a resolution rescinding that action and nominating the controller as sole purchasing agent. Aldermen McDonald and Playman again clashed, the latter saying that Mr. McDonald is offering a resolution at the January meeting making the controller purchasing agent, did so for the purpose of "binding, hand and foot, the street committee." Mr. Playman also said he was perfectly willing to have the controller as purchasing agent but wanted the street committee to have the power to make purchase on its own account. Mr. McDonald, who was a member of the old board of public works, said that board had always made its purchases through the controller and that the street committee should do the same. Aldermen Kirkus, King, Lutz, Manthey, Martin Port and Playman voted against the Schueller resolution, defeating it, 7 to 5. However, later in the evening, after a ten minute recess, Alderman Playman himself made a motion to rescind previous action abolishing the position of purchasing agent, which was carried unanimously. A motion to adopt the former resolution making the controller purchasing agent was then adopted by a unanimous vote.

A claim of $40 made by Jules Iverson against the city, for street work illegally charged to him, was removed.

mended allowed by the street committee. The recommendation was accepted.

A request from the Wisconsin Valley Electric Co. for greater fire protection at their gas and electric plants on Sawdust street was referred to the committee on fire department.

The same company submitted a proposition to replace without cost to the city the present street lights with more modern ones, with an addition of nine new lights. An offer to abolish the "moonlight schedule" and to reduce the annual cost for each light from $78 to $64 was also included. It was also suggested that the city begin as soon as possible and in a conservative way the installation of an ornamental lighting system in the business districts, for which the company will later submit detailed plans. The matter was referred to the lighting committee to investigate and report. The company plans to install sample lights in the near future.

The request of Chief of Police Hoffsoos for remodeling the interior of the North Side calaboose, replacing the old stone cells with a large steel cage, was referred to the committee on public buildings, as was also his suggestion that electric lighted traffic posts be constructed at dangerous corners in the city this spring.

A letter from the tax commission to the city attorney was read. This stated that the change in ownership of the Stevens Point Lighting Co. and Stevens Point Power Co. will not change the method of assessing, except as to the parties assessed. It also stated that the assessment in Stevens Point of equipment of various kind used by Chris Johnson, the Oshkosh contractor who did paving here last summer, was not legal. The council authorized the drawing of orders for $65 and about $27 payable to the treasurer in order to correct the records. The larger order is for the assessment on the Johnson property and the smaller one for an assessment on property of the Weinberg Construction Co. of Grand Rapids, who built the new Normal dormitory.

Aldermen Myers, McDonald and Urowski were named as a committee to investigate the question of a fire truck, which has been frequently discussed in the past. They will probably go to Neenah soon to witness a demonstration.

Alderman Playman brought up the question of an incinerator, but no action was taken.

ARE PAYING PLEDGES

Members of Baptist Church Cleaning Up Obligations—Pastor To Give Lecture.

The members of the Baptist church and their friends continue to redeem the pledges made on the day of the dedication of the beautiful new church. At that time the amount needed to clear up the debt on the building was $1,116, of which only $180 remains to be paid. It is expected that all pledges will be paid in a week or so and the building project entirely paid for.

Since the day of the dedication extra seats and a new piano have been bought and plumbing work done, so that it is not to be wondered at that during the past four months the current expenses have gone behind. In order to raise money to pay for the plumbing, the pastor, Rev. James Blake, will give an illustrated lecture on Central Africa on Tuesday, March 13.

Stevens Point people have enjoyed in the past Mr. Blake's lectures on Africa, where he was at one time engaged in missionary work, but Mr. Blake next Tuesday will present a new phase of the African problem—the relation of the dark continent to the present European war. He will show that Africa was a big factor in causing the war.

The public is invited to hear Mr. Blake and by so doing will aid a worthy cause. General admission will be 15 cents; reserved seats, 25 cents.

NO TRAIN FOR MONTH.

Although Wisconsin has had one of the coldest and stormiest winters on record, this state is an attractive winter resort when compared to North Dakota. E. B. Robertson, of the Wisconsin State bank, received a letter from a friend in McClusky, N. Dak., under date of Feb. 24, in which the writer said McClusky, which has a population of about 700, had been without a train for four weeks. The letter further said that the fuel situation would be serious in another ten days if relief was not forthcoming. It was necessary to transport mail overland by stage. McClusky is on the Turtle Lake branch of the Northern Pacific railway, running from Carrington to Turtle Lake, a distance of 85 miles. Mr. Robertson resided at McClusky for ten years and is interested in the First National bank there.

VOTE ON LICENSE.

Notices of an election on the liquor license question in the town of Plover on April 3 were posted this week. The town entered the dry column last spring, resulting in the closing of one saloon, at McDill. The village of Plover, which also voted the saloons out last spring, may also vote on the question this spring, according to rumors.

TWELVE TEAMS ENTER

Central Wisconsin High School Basketball Tournament Begins Tomorrow—Many Visitors.

The third annual Central Wisconsin High School Basketball Tournament conducted under the auspices of the Stevens Point Normal begins tomorrow afternoon in the Normal gymnasium, continuing through Friday and Saturday. The following twelve teams representing the strongest quintets in the local division have entered and will contest for honors: Grand Rapids, Iola, New London, Wausau, Medford, Stevens Point, Stanley, Merrill, Waupaca, Rib Lake, Ladysmith, Marshfield.

Coach George D. Corneal has completed final arrangements for the big event and every effort possible will be put forth to make the visiting athletes' trip to this city a pleasant one. Various committees have been appointed to meet trains, engage board and room and arrange other details.

The tournament opens at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when Iola plays Waupaca. The contest will be immediately followed by a game between Marshfield and Merrill and at 4:40 o'clock New London contests against Ladysmith. Three games will be played in the evening and an unusually interesting one is promised for the second, when Stevens Point clashes with Wausau. Games will be played Friday evening, Saturday morning and on Saturday evening.

On the last evening the championship contest will be played. An elaborate list of prizes has been hung up for the winners, including a trophy shield for the team winning first place, gold, silver and bronze watch fobs for first, second and third team members, silver cup for conduct and appearance and an individual silver cup.

All of the games will be refereed by Mr. Corneal, and Walter Stewart, captain of the Normal basketball team, will act as umpire. At 2:45 Thursday afternoon the appearance and conduct parade will take place in the Normal gymnasium, to be participated in by all of the teams.

Each Normal school in the state is conducting similar tournaments this week and the winners of the sectional tournaments will go to Menomonie, Wis., to battle for the state championship on March 22, 23 and 24. Last year Grand Rapids, representing this district, won second place at Milwaukee and the local tourney was considered the best conducted by any of the Normals. Plans have been made to accommodate the tag crowds expected for the next few days and extra seats have been placed in the Normal gymnasium.

MERCURY TAKES DROP.

Although the back-bone of winter was believed broken for the season, another of the many cold waves recorded this winter reached this vicinity early Monday morning, when the mercury dropped to the 30 below zero mark, the coldest on record for March of any year in the past. The present winter has been an unusually cold one and below zero days have been almost the rule rather than the exception. Last night and today one of the winter's heaviest snow falls was recorded.

BALANCE IN THE TREASURY.

Poultry Association Makes Good Showing—Next Year's Dates Selected and Officers Chosen.

The annual meeting of the Stevens Point Poultry Association was held last week, when the secretary and treasurer, F. J. Blood, submitted his annual report of receipts and expenditures. During the year ending Jan. 31st the total amount of cash handled was $584.56, practically all of which was donated by local business and professional men. The disbursements during this period amounted to $545.54, leaving a balance in the treasury of $39.02.

The poultry exhibit held by this association a couple of months ago was such a success that the membership has already decided to give another show next year and have chosen the dates Jan. 15, 16, 17 and 18. An expert judge will be engaged to score the birds and award prizes.

Directors elected last week are B. K. McDonald, A. E. Bourne, Geo. Bos, F. D. Reynolds, W. I. Barager, M. E. Bruce, E. P. Trautman. They in turn chose the following officers: President—Dr. W. W. Gregory. Vice Pres.—J. J. Normington. Sec. Treas.—F. J. Blood. Supt.—M. C. Burkli.

WILL OPEN THIS MONTH.

The Nebel Engineering Co., of which C. E. Nebel is manager, is getting located in the opera house block as rapidly as possible. The difficulty in getting freight shipments is proving a handicap, but Mr. Nebel says he expects to be ready for the opening about the middle of the month. The company has the Portage county agency for Delco electric lighting systems for farm homes and also for the Willard storage batteries. It will maintain a storage battery station for repairing and recharging all makes of batteries. A full line of electrical appliances and fixtures will be carried and Mr. Nebel is considering the installation of a stock of marine appliances.

BOYANOWSKI IS LOSER

Judge R. B. Park Upholds Action of Municipal Court in Much Discussed Gambling Case.

Leo A. Boyanowski, convicted in municipal court of permitting gambling in his saloon building at 204 Main street, loses out in the certiorari proceedings instituted against John A. Murat, county judge and ex officio judge of the municipal court. In a decision rendered by Judge B. B. Park and filed with the clerk of the circuit court yesterday afternoon, judgment was rendered in every particular in favor of the judge of the lower court.

The decision sets a precedent which will, unless an appeal is taken, permit of the immediate trial of several similar cases that have been held up pending the decision of Judge Park. It also places a clarifying interpretation upon the statutes governing the operations of the municipal court.

Mr. Boyanowski was arrested during the anti-gambling crusade last fall, when a card game in progress in a room over his saloon was broken up by the mayor and a Milwaukee detective. After his conviction in municipal court he began certiorari proceedings against Judge Murat.

Mr. Boyanowski, through his attorney, assigned the following three reasons why the judgment pronounced against him is void:

1st. Because the complaint is fatally defective in not alleging that the gambling was done and permitted in the building wherein he had his saloon.

2nd. Because the ordinance which it is claimed was violated was not introduced in evidence.

3rd. Because he was denied a jury trial.

Judge Park held that while the complaint was loosely drawn and might have been fatally defective had the action been a criminal one, it is sufficient to apprise Mr. Boyanowski of the exact charge against him, which is one in which the city seeks to recover a penalty. "The rules governing pleadings in criminal cases do not apply," the court holds, and it is also pointed out that the complaint could be amended at any time.

In regard to the second proposition the court held that "the municipal court of the city of Stevens Point takes judicial notice of the ordinances of this city, and that it was not necessary to formally offer it."

The decision of Judge Park deals largely with the third proposition. Mr. Boyanowski claimed that under the provisions of the city charter he had the right of trial by jury, and the court admits that "this proposition is not entirely free from doubt."

"Stevens Point adopted the general charter on June 1st, 1903," the decision recites. "Section 925-70 of the general charter provides for a trial by jury in all cases in the municipal court. But section 925-61 of the general charter law provides that in every city which shall adopt the general charter, which shall at the time of the adoption have a municipal court, the jurisdiction and procedure of such court shall continue unaffected by the provisions of the general charter."

"The municipal court of the city of Stevens Point was created by chapter 357 of the laws of 1891. This law creating the municipal court declares that all the provisions of the charter of the city of Stevens Point relating to practice and procedure in actions arising under the ordinances of the city are made applicable to the municipal court."

"Section 1 of chapter 278 of the laws of 1878, amending the old charter, provided for the appointment by the mayor of one of the city justices of the peace as police justice of the city; and such police justice was by law given exclusive jurisdiction of all cases arising under the ordinances of the city. This court was abolished by the act of 1891 creating the municipal court."

"Chapter 359 of the laws of 1885, amending the old charter, provides that no jury trial shall be allowed either party in actions for violation of the ordinances." "Such was the procedure in the police court until that court was abolished in 1891; and has since 1891 been the procedure in the municipal court."

Another paragraph reads as follows: "Section 925-250 provides the adoption of the general charter by a city shall repeal the existing charter provisions of the city, except such acts and parts of acts as may be especially retained by the provisions of the general charter act; and it is held this provision together with section 925-61, is sufficient to keep alive the provisions of chapter 359 of the laws of 1885 denying a jury trial in actions to recover a penalty for violating a city ordinance."

The claim was also made that the ordinance Mr. Boyanowski was charged with violating is void because it provides for both penalty and punishment. "Unquestionably an absolute provision for imprisonment would be void," the court holds. "But as in Mr. Boyanowski's case a fine only was imposed, Mr. Boyanowski cannot be heard now to challenge the ordinance because it also provides imprisonment. Furthermore, the court would be inclined to be necessary to read the ordinance as it now stands as if the intent of the common council was to provide that the imprisonment was only to follow in default of payment of fine. And such was the construction evidently given it by the municipal court in imposing the fine against the relator."

"The ordinance, to avoid all question, should be amended so as to provide that in default of payment of such fine and costs the defendant be imprisoned until such fine and costs are paid, not, however, to exceed ninety days."

DEFENDANT MUST PAY.

A Junction City man, sued for breach of promise by a young lady also residing in the village, was found guilty last evening and judgment for $500 was rendered against him. It was all for fun, however, for the trial was merely of the mock variety. The case was tried in Hardina's hall, with characters representing the judge, eight jurors, sheriff, plaintiff and defendant, clerk and various other court attaches. Attorney T. H. Hanna of this city and Attorney O. A. Stolen of Junction City represented the defendant and plaintiff, respectively. While the jury was out, Mr. Hanna gave a talk on community affairs. About 350 persons attended the trial which was both educating and entertaining, and a lunch of coffee and sandwiches was served. There was no admission fee, but a small charge was made for the lunch.

WOULD PROVIDE ARMORIES

Local People Much Interested In Bill Introduced in the Wisconsin Legislature.

Stevens Point people who have been anxiously looking forward to the time when this city will have a company of the Wisconsin National Guard, are much interested in the proposed law providing for state appropriations for armories.

Under the terms of the law, which has been introduced in the legislature, cities having National Guard companies will get state-built armories. In the past the construction of armories has been left to local enterprise.

One objection to the organization of a company here has been the lack of an armory. The new law would overcome this, if passed, and it is believed there is enough interest among local young men to warrant a movement looking toward the organization of a company. The National Guard is to be materially increased in size and prospects are good for Stevens Point getting a company.

MEETING IN BELMONT.

There will be a farmers' meeting held in district school No. 5, town of Belmont, Friday evening, March 16. J. M. Coyner, county agricultural agent, will talk on "The Weighing and Testing of Milk on the Farm," H. L. Somers will discuss "Weeds on the Farm" and "Testing Seed Corn." Everybody interested in the betterment of stock and in increasing the yield of corn ought to plan to be present at this meeting.

SEEKS HIS FREEDOM.

Albert Kroll, who shot and killed his wife at New London two or three years ago and was determined to be insane by a jury in circuit court, is seeking his release from the state asylum for the criminal insane at Waupun. A hearing will be held at Waupun on April 4, before Judge B. B. Park and a jury. The case is a parallel of the famous Thaw case in respect to the proceedings now instituted.

HAS MANY HEIRS.

Mrs. Guy Martin of this city is one of about thirty relatives in various parts of the country who will share in the estate of the late Miss Sarah E. Stinson. The will of Miss Stinson, after providing for several specific bequests, directed that the residue go to Sylvanus Stinson of Watertown, N. Y., a brother of Miss Stinson. Sylvanus Stinson is dead, however, and as a result the estate will be distributed among the heirs-at-law, including a sister and several nieces and nephews. The entire estate is valued at about $2,500, and consists largely of two houses in the city, a lot on Martin's Island and cash. A. E. Redfield, administrator with the will annexed, offered the real estate at public sale last Saturday to realize funds to pay the costs of administration, to settle claims against the estate and for the payment of legacies provided. However, no satisfactory bids were received, so Mr. Redfield is by law given one year to negotiate a private sale of the property. Mrs. Guy Martin is a niece of the deceased.

MRS. CHRISTINA CASE.

Mrs. Christina Case died at her home, 609 Illinois avenue, at 11:10 o'clock this morning. Her death was rather unexpected, although she had been ill with a complication of ailments for some time. Mrs. Case was the widow of John W. Case, who died several years ago when stricken with heart trouble while on an outing on the Plover river, just east of town. She is survived by three sons, William J. of Fond du Lac, Arthur of Oshkosh and Don of Marquette, N. Dak., and two daughters, Mrs. Charles Butterfield, who has been living with her mother, and Mrs. Frank E. Berry of Duluth.

SETTLEMENT IS MADE

Assignees of E. W. Sellers Get $2,500 From Sale of Waterpower at McDill.

As a result of a settlement made out of court, the assignees of E. W. Sellers have received $2,500 from the sale of the McDill waterpower. The waterpower was purchased last fall by John Strange of Neenah, who paid Mrs. E. W. Sellers $5,000 for her equity in it. Under the terms of the settlement one-half of this $5,000 was paid to the assignees and the other half to Mrs. Sellers.

After the deal for the purchase of the waterpower had been closed, the assignees started suit to set aside the deed by which Mr. Sellers turned the property over to Mrs. Sellers. It was claimed that the waterpower was the property of Mr. Sellers and that it was transferred without consideration.

The waterpower is to be utilized in the operation of a pulp mill Mr. Strange is to establish at McDill. This waterpower has been only partly developed and the right to use 100 horsepower had been held by the old Wisconsin Graphite Co., in which Mr. Sellers was largely interested.

BROWN IS HONORED.

At the adjourned annual meeting of the Wisconsin Fraternal Congress, held at Madison recently, John W. Brown of this city was elected secretary-treasurer. Mr. Brown, who is great commander of the Knights of the Maccabees in Wisconsin, is also chairman of the fraternal day committee of the congress, in connection with the Wisconsin State fair.

GETTING READY TO LEAVE.

A week from next Sunday, March 18th, is the date set by R. A. Oberlatz for the departure of himself and family to make a new home in the far west. They expect to leave here on Soo train No. 1 at 9:34 a. m., going to St. Paul and thence to Sioux City, Iowa, near where a sister of Mr. Oberlatz lives. After a few days' visit there Mr. and Mrs. Oberlatz and children will go to Bellingham, Wash., and reside there temporarily while the gentleman decides on a permanent location. He has two towns in view, Marshfield, Ore., and Cle Elum, Wash., each of which has a population of between 3,000 and 4,000 people and both are located in timber districts. Marshfield has the preference at present and should be located there Mr. Oberlatz will engage in the grocery or gent's furnishing goods business.

TO BUILD NEW HOME.

Nick Simonis of Nelsonville and six of his neighbors drove to this city Friday morning with loads of lumber for Roman Zblawski, had the material dressed at a local planing mill and returned with it in the afternoon. Mr. Zblawski is soon to commence the erection of a modern new home on his farm in Amherst township, the structure to be two stories in height and brick veneered. The brick and a good portion of the lumber is already on the ground. It took upwards of four hours to make the trip one way, the roads being almost impassable in places because of the deep snow.

Mr. Simonis planted six and one-half acres of potatoes last spring, from which he harvested about 400 bushels of potatoes and sold a portion of them lately at $2.10 per bushel. Several growers in that vicinity raised from 1,200 to 1,600 bushels each, while others with equally large acreage experienced an almost complete failure.

SELLS HIS PRACTICE

Dr. G. F. Murphy To Leave Junction City—Dr. G. W. Reis of Star Prairie Is Successor.

Dr. G. F. Murphy, who has been engaged in the practice of medicine at Junction City since January 28, 1913, having succeeded Dr. S. S. Leith shortly after the latter's death, has disposed of his practice and will leave the first of next week for Plymouth, Wis. Dr. Murphy will go to New York city to take a year's post graduate work in one of the big medical schools, following which he will probably locate in Milwaukee or Chicago. His family will remain at Plymouth, their old home while he is in the east.

Dr. Murphy's successor at Junction City will be Dr. G. W. Reis of Star Prairie, Wis. Dr. Reis and Mrs. Reis were both graduates from the college of medicine of Marquette University, Milwaukee, in 1911. Dr. Reis later was assistant to Dr. Beckman, the noted St. Paul surgeon, for two years, and also did special work at the Mayo hospital in Rochester, Minn. He has been practicing recently in Star Prairie, St. Croix county.

Dr. Reis was married at the Richmond yesterday and is expected to arrive in Junction City about Friday of this week. The departure of Dr. Murphy and children, Ruth, Warren and Willis, will be regretted by the many friends they have made during their residence at Junction City, where the doctor enjoyed a large practice.

He is a member of the Gamma Tau Beta fraternity, whose house is quarantined, and he has been removed to the Madison city contagious hospital. His condition is not serious.

The spread of the epidemic from Chadbourne Hall to the Gamma Tau Beta house was discovered when Waller and Robert Gilman, both members of the society, were taken sick. Gilman is at the university clinic, and ten of his fraternity brothers are quarantined at their house.

GERMANY PLOTS WAR ON UNITED STATES

Deceitful of German Government Revealed—Proposed Alliance With Japan and Mexico.

That Germany, in planning unrestricted submarine warfare and counting its consequences, proposed an alliance with Mexico and Japan to make war on the United States if this country should not remain neutral, was revealed last week by the publication of a document that had fallen into the hands of the United States government.

Japan, through Mexican mediation, was to be urged to abandon her allies and join in the attack on the United States. Mexico, for her reward, was to receive financial support from Germany, reconquer Texas, New Mexico and Arizona—lost provinces, and share in the victorious peace terms Germany contemplated.

Details were left to German Minister von Eckhardt in Mexico City, who, by instructions signed by German Foreign Minister Zimmermann at Berlin, Jan. 19, 1917, was directed to propose the alliance with Mexico to Gen. Carranza, provisional president, and suggest that Mexico seek to take a larger role in the plot.

These instructions were transmitted to von Eckhardt through Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador at Washington, now on his way home to Germany under a safe conduct obtained from his enemies by this country.

Germany pictured to Mexico, by broad intimation, England and her allies defeated. Germany and its allies triumphant and in world domination by the instrument of unrestricted warfare.

Zimmermann's instructions to von Eckhardt are as follows: "Berlin, Jan. 19, 1917.—On the 1st of February we intend to begin submarine warfare unrestricted. In spite of this, it is our intention to keep neutral the United States of America.

"If this attempt is not successful we propose an alliance on the following basis with Mexico: That we shall make war together and together make peace. We shall give general financial support, and it is understood that Mexico is to reconquer the lost territory in New Mexico, Texas and Arizona. The details are left to you for settlement.

"You are instructed to inform the president of Mexico of the above in the greatest confidence as soon as it is certain that there will be an outbreak of war with the United States and suggest that the president of Mexico, on his own initiative, should communicate with Japan suggesting adherence at once to this plan; at the same time, offer to mediate between Germany and Japan.

"Please call to the attention of the president of Mexico that the employment of ruthless submarine warfare now promises to compel England to make peace in a few months."

In response to a request from the senate, President Wilson Thursday night transmitted a report from Secretary Lansing saying the published text of the German foreign minister's note to von Eckhardt was authentic; that it came into possession of the government during the present week, and that in his opinion it was incompatible with public interest to send any further information to the senate at present.

Japanese Ambassador Sato at Washington on Thursday denied any knowledge of the alleged implication of Japan in the reported German-Mexican plot, but admitted that the report that Germany had made such an attempt through Mexico was probably true.

"Germany would not stop at anything, however, in the present state of affairs," he added, which makes report of such a plot very probable.

The Japanese embassy later issued a formal statement declaring that "under no circumstances" would the Japanese government "entertain such an invitation" as Germany attempted to send to Tokyo.

TO TRY AGAIN.

No applicants having appeared for the civil service examination recently called to fill the position of postmaster at Custer another examination is announced for Saturday, March 24th in this city. WILL MOVE TO WISCONSIN.

Amherst Advocate: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Fleming recently received a letter from the A. G. Cate family, at Phoenix, Arizona, stating that they were anticipating making their future home in Wisconsin and that they would arrive here the first of June. Before residing in the west, Mr. and Mrs. Cate were among the prominent residents of this section and their many friends and old acquaintances are glad to hear of their decision to come back to Wisconsin, and only hope that they will once more decide to live in Amherst or some near place.

COUNTRY NEEDS THRIFT

United States Facing Serious Economic Condition Says Head of Thrift Society.

Kansas City, Mo. That the United States is facing a serious economic condition as a result of the heavy burdens placed upon it by the war abroad and by the proverbial thriftlessness of the rank and file of our population, was voiced by S. W. Straus, President of the American Society for Thrift. In a communication presented by him to the Committee on Thrift Education of the National Education Association, of which Straus is a member, in session here, he declared that the present abnormal prices for commodities is an indication of serious conditions.

"I believe every member of this committee is willing to admit the seriousness of the economic situation in America," Straus declared.

"While it is true that we as a nation are prosperous, it is equally incontrovertible that as individuals we are profligate. In this country the records of the Surrogate Courts, for example, show that 82 out of every 100 men who die leave no income producing estates. Only 3% leave estates amounting to $10,000 or more. Out of every 100 women who are left widows, only 18 are in good or comfortable circumstances. The other 82 are left either in absolute want or, to a great extent, objects of charity.

At the present time, and for several years, we have been going through a period of abnormal prices for commodities. The American housewife today is paying her grocer and her butcher prices that are reminiscent of the days of the Civil war, but it is not specifically the high cost of living that affords cause for alarm.

The seriousness of the situation lies in these facts that make the cost of living high, and this is to a great extent, thriftlessness. The European war, which is the most prodigious example of wastefulness in the history of the world, is responsible to a great extent for the untoward conditions in America. Values running far into the billions have been wiped out in the unhappy lands across the sea and the end is not yet in sight. All humanity must help share the burden of this waste. Every citizen in America today is helping to pay this giant's tax. And what is more distressing, there will be no let-up with the dawn of peace. The enormous war bills of Europe will place a load upon the citizens of America for many years to come. At the same time we have as an additional burden the thriftlessness of our own people, and this is proverbial. We are the Belshazzar of all nations. We have for generations been seated at the Babylonian feast of plenty. But the hand has written upon the wall. Unless we take warning we will suffer the fate of that ancient city, which for 2,000 years ruled the world with undisputed sway.

"I feel safe in saying also that every member of this committee will agree with me in the assertion that only through our schools can the change from these unhappy conditions be brought about. Begin at the foundation. Teach thrift to the child of today if you would have the man of tomorrow thrifty."

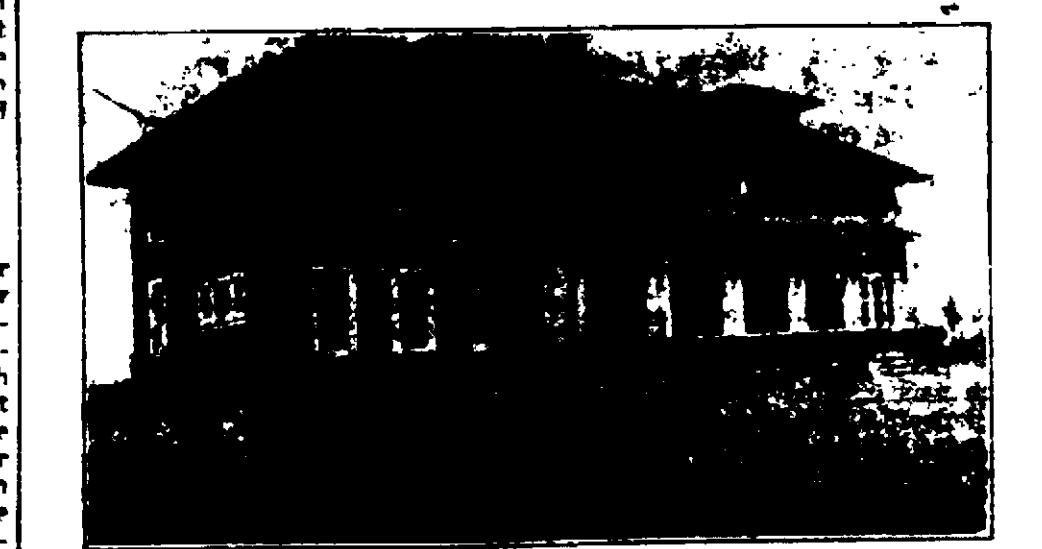

"This is the chief lesson that American history teaches us: A nation which ignores the teachings of thrift to its children will never be permanently thrifty."

Sense of Justice. "That parrot I bought uses violent language."

"Lady," replied the dealer, "I won't deny that he does swear some. But you must give him credit for the fact that he doesn't drink nor gamble."

The Latest Reason. Teacher—Now, children, what was the cause of the decline of the Roman empire? Bright Boy—I know. It was due to too much militarism on the part of outsiders.—Puck.

Where Normal Students Learn to Keep House

Forty-eight students of the home economics department of the Normal receive six weeks of practical instruction in housekeeping each year in the John Francis Sims cottages located on N. Fremont street. Their work is carefully supervised by Miss Bessie May Allen, head of the department, who makes her home in the cottages throughout the school year, and under her management the girls are given the opportunity to become thoroughly familiar with the duties of the household.

The two cottages, under one roof, were completed in December 1915, and are distinguished as North and South, each housing four students at one time. The various duties are divided among mistress, cook and first and second maid, who work in relays, changing every ten days. In this way each one, at the close of her six weeks' residence, will have had active charge of the many duties which are assigned to the four positions.

The actual work includes all household duties, such as the preparation of meals, laundry work, etc., and varies from the tending of furnace to entertaining formally. All expenditures must be accurately recorded and the maximum amount allowed for board is determined by ascertaining the average cost to the students while at their boarding houses in the city.

PUBLISH BOOK SOON

Prof. F. N. Spindler Completes Manuscript on "Vision" as First Volume of Series.

Prof. Frank N. Spindler, vice president of the Stevens Point Normal and instructor of psychology, history of education, and methods, has completed the writing of a book on "Vision" or the "Story of Seeing." The manuscript has been sent to Dr. George V. Dearborn of Cambridge, Mass., who is the editor of a series of seven volumes, of which Prof. Spindler's is the first.

The book was not written as a text but as a popular work and is in ten chapters, containing 35,000 words, amply illustrated. Mr. Spindler had been gathering material for the last year for its contents and had been writing since the 15th of October. In brief, the story tells how we use our eyes and what they are for, how we see the outer world in all its colors and shades, followed by a discussion of visual illusions and hallucinations and a discussion of the training and development of sense and sight. It is written in plain language and in an interesting way.

The authors of the several volumes are leaders in educational work in the United States and it is expected that the books will be widely read. Moffatt Yard & Co., New York, are the publishers, and Mr. Spindler's work will sell for $1.25.

COMPLIMENTS NORMAL TEAM.

Students of Oshkosh State School Say Local Basketball Team Will Win Championship.

In the February issue of the "Normal Advance," a periodical gotten out by the students of the Oshkosh Normal, appeared the following article headed "The Stevens Point Game."

"In schedule time Oshkosh met the Pointers, and say you simply must hand it to those fellows. They beat us and beat us hollow, but how? By just playing all around us and did it in as clean and neat a fashion as ever decorated the front page of 'Life.' Stevens Point, whether they know it or not, has a winning team, a team that any school could be proud of, and if they don't cop the big prize it will certainly be a surprise to most of us. The game itself was a dandy although it seemed a little tiresome to see the Pointers find the basket so often, but it was a clean, fast game with lots of team work and good basket shooting, so that no one really felt bad after the results, for we feel that they deserved it. The final score was 33 to 9."

TUBERCULOSIS PREVENTION.

Simple Precaution by Which Owners May Keep the Disease From Their Animals.

Tuberculosis is the commonest and most widely prevalent of all contagious diseases. There are many other infections, however, which are much more easily spread and to which the body of the average man or animal is much less resistant. The explanation of these apparently inconsistent facts is to be found in the appearance of perfect health which victims of the disease often possess long after they have become active disseminators of the tubercle bacillus. It is thus possible for the disease to be introduced into herds and to become firmly established in them without the knowledge of the owner.

Live stock can be protected against this insidious disease by the practice of two rules, which may be stated as follows:

- (1) Never introduce an animal into a healthy herd or flock unless there is positive proof that it comes from a healthy herd or flock.
- (2) Consult your veterinarian regarding the special tests which can be made to prove whether animals are free from serious and common diseases and make sure that no animals are added to healthy herds unless these tests, combined with a period of segregation, shows that they are free from infection.

In its insidious and chronic character infectious abortion somewhat resembles tuberculosis. The germs of this disease may be spread by animals that are apparently healthy, and precautions similar to those adopted for tuberculosis should therefore be taken to prevent its dissemination.

The essential cause of tuberculosis is the tubercle bacillus. Unless this germ is present there can be no tuberculosis. Furthermore, as far as we know, the germ does not seem able to grow anywhere but in the bodies of its victims, and it is not able to establish itself in a new victim unless the animal is exposed to it repeatedly or for relatively long periods of time, or under peculiarly unfavorable conditions. Despite the prevalence of the disease, therefore, it is possible to guard against it by doing away with the conditions that favor its spread. Unhygienic conditions promote animals for the development of tuberculosis in much the same manner as cultivation promotes a piece of land for the production of a crop. Nevertheless, even under such conditions, tuberculosis can not develop without the tubercle bacilli any more than a corn can be produced in a cultivated field without seed.

To prevent tuberculosis in live stock, therefore, the germs should be kept away by the precautions already outlined: First, prevent the introduction of infected animals into the herd or flock; and, secondly, the surroundings of live stock should be such that the animals are kept in sufficiently good condition to resist the chance attacks of the germ.

Sixty-six species of birds common to northeastern United States feed to a greater or less extent on the boll weevil. The most active enemies to the weevil are the orioles and swallows.

Over half a ton of streptococci was used by the biological survey in milking disease on 35,400 acres in North Dakota during the past year.

HATCH CHICKENS EARLY.

Fresh Eggs Will be Scarce Next Fall and Winter—Poultry Man Has Remedy.

(U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.) Did it ever occur to you that nature requires her children to take an annual vacation? She does, and nowhere do human beings puzzle their brains over this fact more than when the hens begin their yearly holiday. This vacation is technically called the "molting season." It begins during the late summer. The hens stop laying, and change their suits of feathers for new ones. Usually they consume three or four months in the process. Most of us know this perfectly well, but are apt to overlook the fact that a very important feature of the molting period is that egg laying stops. We are unreasonable and expect the hens to lay all the time. When the hens take this vacation new-laid fresh eggs are scarce and remain scarce until the pullets hatched during the preceding spring begin to lay.

The remedy is very simple, and is under the control of the poultry man. The first step is to have chickens hatched early, so that the pullets begin to lay when the hens begin to molt. This is not difficult. Pullets of the American breeds begin to lay at about 7 months of age. Leghorn pullets begin when about 6 months old. North of the Ohio river this means that all hatching must be over by May 1 at the latest. The best plan is to have the chickens coming at intervals during March and April. The earliest hatched pullets will, of course, begin to lay first. If any of them begin to molt, their places will be taken by the later ones and a steady supply of eggs will be more certain.

The difficulty in the way of the practical application of this matter is that so many poultry keepers are dependent on hens for hatching. As long as we have late hatched chickens we will have late setters. The poultry keeper who wants to change from late hatching to early hatching must therefore either get broody hens from some one else or use an incubator. After he has "changed the dates" on his flock he will have no trouble, especially with the American breeds.

Every progressive poultry raiser who has tried it, every agricultural college and the government, have data showing that early hatching will produce fall and winter layers. In the government flock during the past winter the pullets of the entire flock averaged over 20 per cent in egg production, and some pens made 35 per cent. That means, in plain language, that the egg production for all the pullets was one egg daily for every five hens, and for some pens one egg daily for every three hens. This too, when fresh eggs sold up to 75 cents per dozen in Washington. This could not have been done except by early hatching.

PRIZE FOR HOUSE PLAN.

Madison, Wis.—A new plan has been devised by the authorities of the University of Wisconsin, who have been planning to erect on the University campus a model farm home, constructed as far as possible of Wisconsin products. Trained architects have submitted designs, but an appeal is now being made to practical farmers and their wives to assist the University in getting out the proper type of home, which particularly appeals to them. In order to encourage the farmers and their wives to compete a $50 prize has been offered by the Northern Hemlock & Hardwood Manufacturers' Association, whose operations are chiefly in this state. According to Dean H. L. Russell, of the College of Agriculture, who wants to have the model farm house a true farm home, the architects competing produced beautiful designs, but the interiors were not such as to appeal to the needs of the farm. Now the plan is to ask for plans from farmers.

"We know," says Dean Russell, "that the plans they will submit will not be the finished products from the standpoint of design, but if we can get the internal arrangement in a thoroughly satisfactory and practical way, which will serve as a guide, their designs can be worked up architecturally by our state architect, who is thoroughly in sympathy with the general scheme involved."

The plan of the university is to have every part of the house built and finished with Wisconsin materials, and all the equipment also from the badger state. This house to stand on the campus, thus being both a demonstration of Wisconsin resources and a model for the students in agriculture.

There been more variety. Beef, served in different ways, was dished up three times a day. However, judging from his healthy appearance, the Stevens Point boy apparently thrived on the diet.

The regiment was mustered out of federal service at Fort Sheridan last week, but is still in the state service. Rosenow is subject to state service for the full term of enlistment, three years, beginning last June 21, and at the end of that time will be enrolled in the reserves. He is liable to call for duty at any time, but is of the belief that the National Guard will never be assembled again except as a part of a larger army.

On arriving at Marshfield, the headquarters of Co. A, last Wednesday night, the returning soldiers were greeted by the sound of whistles and bells. Thousands of Marshfield residents were at the depot to meet the company and band on the special train. From the depot the line of march led along the flag bedecked streets to the armory, where a lunch was served. Thursday night a program was carried out at the Adler opera house, where speeches were given by prominent citizens and a concert given by the regimental band.

Reproduction of Pictures Printed in The Gazette Within Past Several Years.

The fourth of The Gazette's series of old time photographs appeared in last week's issue, the cuts numbered 10, 11 and 12. When the photograph designated as No. 10 was taken some years ago it was considered a perfect likeness of Henry N. Nelson, now cashier of Security bank at Amherst Junction and an official of that village since its incorporation.

That of No. 11 was easily recognized by all who knew the late Fred J. Carpenter, a former law partner of Judge Byron B. Park.

The picture labeled No. 12 was that of W. J. Clifford, former president of the Clifford Lumber Co. and who for many years was one of the best known lumbermen in northern Wisconsin. Mr. Clifford died at his home in this city a few years ago.

A reproduction of the features of three ladies is given in the cuts printed below:

EXALTED RULERS' NIGHT.

TELEPHONE IN SCHOOL.

Telephones are beginning to be regarded as a necessary part of the equipment of rural schools, but so far but one country school in Portage county, that in district No. 3 in Dewey, has been so equipped. Telephones in schools are of much aid to county superintendents, and are also of great convenience to teachers, scholars and parents. The Dewey school referred to has had a telephone for several years, connected with the Stevens Point exchange of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. The Almond High school also has telephone connections.

TEACHERS RESUME WORK.

Miss Ruth Finnessy of Stockton returned Monday to her work as teacher in the McDill public school after a two weeks' illness. Her sister, Miss Jessie Finnessy, who was also in and off duty for two weeks, resumed her work Monday as teacher in district No. 4, Carson. The latter school has just been equipped with a new desk for the teacher and nearly fifty individual adjustable desks for the students. James Fogarty is the clerk of the district and it was largely through his efforts that the improvements were made. The old desks had been in service many years and, besides being obsolete, were in bad repair.

JACOBS APPEALS TO COMMUNITY SPIRIT

Points to Need of Concerted Action in Keynote Speech Before New Organization.

"The opinion has been frequently expressed of late by many of our substantial citizens, that the time was ripe to organize a Civic & Commerce association in the city of Stevens Point, to include as many as possible of the active business and professional men of the city who can be relied upon to devote their best personal efforts to do the things from time to time, that may seem best to promote the general welfare and commercial success of the city," said P. J. Jacobs at the organization meeting of the Civic & Commerce association last Friday evening.

"Experience of the thriving cities of our country conclusively shows that the one proper, suitable, successful agency, to not only extend the invitation, but actually secure such attention, and in addition to improve local business conditions, to foster the interest of our present industries, approve or disapprove of measures concerning the community, and in general protect the citizens in many ways, is a voluntary public service body, composed of business and professional men representing all the several lines of business and professions of the city, and from all classes, banded together for combined action and purpose, which is especially needed in times of emergency. Consisting of a large membership, it commands an influence and a power as well as accomplishing results that would be utterly impossible for individuals to secure single-handed."

"In addition to these things the rules and regulations should provide, among other things, a limit of the time which a member might address the assembly, and the number of times he might appear in ordinary; make proper regulations regarding memberships, elections, amendments and matters of that kind, to guarantee that the same will have due consideration and mature thought before any action is taken, and at the same time to provide for swift and sure action where cases of emergency may require as regards other matters."

"No organization can long endure, much less succeed in accomplishing results that are worth while, unless it has some financial strength, and in an organization of this kind this is best secured by way of membership fees from members. This is not an entertainment society. This is a business organization. If it is worth anything it is worth not only serious thought and consideration, but personal support and financial support, and I would unhesitatingly recommend that a substantial membership fee be provided for on a basis that is fair and equitable to all, whether individual, partnership, or corporation, large business or small, but which will provide funds."

"The argument may be made that a substantial membership fee will undoubtedly restrict the membership, but we must have funds as well as members, and a few live members, realizing their duty and obligation to this organization, and willing to deliver their share of the energy necessary to do things for Stevens Point, are worth a regiment of dead ones, and so I say with the thought in mind that we need both members and funds, try and reach a happy medium that will give us the best of both."

"A representative membership, such as I have herein suggested, is the best guarantee of the good faith of this organization and the devotion of their best efforts for Stevens Point, and not for a few."

"The rules and regulations of this organization should provide that it be non-sectarian, non-political and non-partisan, and bound to the furtherance and protection of the best interests of Stevens Point as a whole, and not as a mouthpiece, agent, or ambassador of any particular person, faction or line of business."

"The secretary being perhaps the most active agent of the organization, and in a sense a paid representative, should be a hired man subject to the will and direction of the board of directors, responsible to them, for they in turn are responsible to this organization for the proper and able performance of the duties imposed upon them."

"That in order to be effective and successful the governing regulations of such an organization should place the absolute control of such body, not in the hands or vest pocket of one, or two, or three, but following the rule universally adopted and used throughout the United States for the management of large business interests, such control of such organization should be vested in a board of directors consisting probably of nine, upon whom rests the responsibility of the management of the organization. Carrying such responsibility, this board of directors, following the general practice found most successful in dealing with business propositions, and this is a business organization."

Cold Sores and Fever Blisters are only outward manifestations of the inflammation of the mucous surface that lines the lungs, the stomach and all the digestive tract, but they give you evidence of how sore a membrane may become as a result of inflammation, which is stagnation of the blood, rightly called acute catarrh.

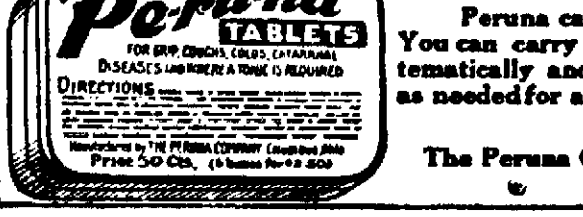

If you suffer from such conditions don't let them become chronic, don't run the risk of systemic catarrh.

DRAINAGE MEN MEET.

The annual convention of the Wisconsin State Drainage association will be held at the college of agriculture, Madison, March 21 and 22. Drainage engineers, contractors and manufacturers of tile, ditching implements and machinery will attend in large numbers. W. B. Coddington of Plover is president of the state association.

SERVE HOT LUNCHES.

A bill in the legislature, providing for state appropriations to provide hot lunches in rural schools, is of much interest in Portage county. Fully one-third of the graded and rural schools of this county are serving hot noon-day lunches, consisting mainly of cocoa and soup. Various plans are followed, but all have been successful. In some of the schools money has been raised by entertainments to pay for the lunches, while in others each student contributes small sums of money or furnishes foodstuffs. Generally a group of girls is responsible for the preparation and serving of the food and the washing of dishes. Aside from the fact that the serving of lunches to needy students of the hardships of long walks in winter weather and makes cold lunches unnecessary, it encourages more regular attendance and provides a period of stability among the students with proper supervision.

MILLADORE.

Mabel Versulst is spending the week in Milwaukee.

Mrs. C. E. Myers visited in Marshfield a day last week.

Ed. Wotruba, who is employed in Stevens Point, spent Sunday at his home in this village.

Luella Heasler, who attends the Stevens Point Normal, spent Sunday with her sister, Miss Ethel, who teaches here.

With below zero temperature, but clear and calm, it might be said that March came in like a cold storage lamb.

Anyhow a state of war between the United States and Germany would silence one class of pro-German sympathizers. There would probably be large quantities of American-made shells for "delivery" to the kaiser's forces.

The numerical system proposed for members of the new Civic & Commerce association has to do with one of the first principles of this organization. This principle is, "The city as a whole first; the individual second." The organization is not to attract attention to any individual; it is not to promote the interests of any individual or class, except as such individual will profit equally with all others of the city in its development and upbuilding. It is this principle which justifies the united and active support of all good citizens.

This spirit of community service is not idealistic and impracticable. It is not self-sacrifice in any sense of the word. It is simply far-sighted, well balanced judgment directed in the accomplishment of that which is well worthy of our best effort. That these accomplishments are for the best interests of those seeking their attainment and therefore selfish is admitted, but it is a selfishness that is based on a broad plane of efficiency which renders service to all.

The members of the association need not be mentioned by number unless some occasion should arise therefor, but the principle can be carried out effectively and conscientiously by the press and the public by referring to the activities of the association without mention of names.

If a committee of the association is appointed to accomplish a certain object, there is no reason why the names of this committee should be given prominence. The committee is responsible to the association and the association selects them for their fitness to serve in the given capacity. If the work be a success, the credit is due the association; if it fails the association carries the responsibility.

If the members of the association are willing to serve in this manner for the welfare of the community, the least that can be said in commendation.

"Senator LaFollette is not only representing the people of his state—he is representing 90 per cent of the whole American people—in his stand against the progress of the war juggernaut in the United States congress.

"This requires courage, real courage, a courage far greater than the senator has ever displayed in any of his former battles; for it means the sacrifice of any national political aspirations he may possess."

The foregoing is from an editorial in the Milwaukee Free Press of last Friday. In view of the "diluted Americanism" the Free Press has been encouraging in the past, it is not difficult to account for its praise of the attitude of Wisconsin's senior senator on the question of defense. But how the Free Press reasons that the senator is sacrificing "national political aspirations" if he is representing 90 per cent of the whole American people? Is beyond comprehension. However, it is to be wondered at that the editors of the Free Press are at all patriotic.

The important relation of the potato to the question of price was conclusively demonstrated last week. On Monday the buyers of potatoes paid as high as $2.06 a bushel on the local market. All over the country the retail price of the commodity jumped to the highest level on record—so high that thousands of people were forced to give up eating them. A general, even though not pre-arranged, boycott was the result, and old king potato took a tumble from his lofty perch. Even in Stevens Point, where retail prices did not approach those of most other cities, economical housewives vowed to get along without potatoes until they could be bought at a reasonable price. There is a limit to what the average family can pay for a staple article of food, and when that limit is reached substitution is bound to be resorted to. People of Stevens Point are glad to see potatoes commanding high prices, but this winter's prices have put the potato consumer in a mighty hard position in North Dakota last November is a movement that is spreading to other western states and is now being earnestly advocated in this state by the Society of Equity and other farmers' organizations. Primarily the movement is a protest against the juggling of grain prices and speculation in food prices and the purpose of the league is to "put the speculative markets out of business through co-operation of the state and the farmers in the distribution of land products."

In Wisconsin it is claimed that several thousand have already enrolled and within a year the organizers expect 50,000 to 75,000 to be active members each one paying into the treasury $9 in advance when joining. The New York World observes that "Not one of these class parties ever enacted a class idea," although they are "full of weird notions." They all die and the old parties accepting what is reasonable in their demands, live on. In proof this journal recalls that the first farmers' party was the Grangers of the seventies; they were followed by the Farmers' Alliance of the eighties, and they in turn by the People's party in the nineties. The league voices a long-standing protest against market conditions controlled by powerful combinations in the larger cities, and The World goes on to say that if North Dakota under its government by and for farmers can profitably perform all the proposed services for itself, it is expected that the old parties will disappear.

"Similar hopes were entertained in the cases of the Grange, the Alliance, and Populism, but that was not the way things worked. The Grange was a pioneer in the agitation for public control of railroads, which all parties long ago accepted in the states and nation. The Alliance demanded sub-treasury warehouses for the storage of farm products upon which money should be advanced. By an act approved August 11, 1916, Congress regulated transactions in cotton futures, provided for standardized grain, and established a national warehouse system. Populism urged the income tax and the popular election of United States senators, which are now the law of the land."

For fear that some of our readers may have missed it, we are reprinting from last week's Gazette a paragraph regarding the high cost of living that advances a novel, logical solution of the problem. The paragraph was written by The Gazette's Dancy correspondent and clearly illustrates the art of expressing much in few words, as well as throwing light on a question of vital importance. The article follows:

The writer's solution of the high cost of living is to suggest an attraction that will succeed in keeping some of the young people on the farm and not expect the old folks who have raised large families, and worked pretty nearly enough, to do the farm work, as is the case on the majority of farms now. These are the conditions through this section of country and seems to be the general complaint all over.

The attempt to subtract three from two in the wool supply of the world has brought its inevitable answer in minus one, according to a circular sent out by the Washington Woolen Mills, Frederickburg, Virginia. Wool, which sold for 60 to 65 cents per pound in 1916, is under contract for delivery next June at $1.00. The United States produces less than half the wool it needs and must bid against the necessities of war for the wool needed to make up the shortage, which comes from South America. It is predicted that if the war continues another year it will not be a question of price, but of wool at any price, and if this country should attempt to clothe an army of any size the supply of wool now used by the mills for the general trade would seriously reduce the supply. So long as the war continues, clothing must climb in price, for there is no substitute for wool. When the war ends there will be no reserve supply of wool, for which the demand will be unprecedented. A large part of twenty million men must discard their tattered, vermin infested uniforms for civilian clothes. The nations now at war will wage the greatest commercial war in history to recover the markets of the world and the gold that has been drained from them. The demand for raw wool and cotton will be insatiable, because it takes nearly as much raw stock to start up a mill as it normally buys in six months. Drawing one's deductions from the foregoing, it seems certain that raw wool and raw cotton and clothing made from these will be higher during the year following an armistice than at present. The retailer or the consumer who buys now for future needs is carrying out one form of preparedness.

Germany, regardless of the argument of "military necessity," can not justify herself for the greatest of all crimes—murder. Regardless of what her sympathizers may say, Germany is guilty of the murder of American citizens who have merely insisted on having advantage of their acknowledged right of free travel on the seas. As American citizens they are entitled to the protection of the American government in the full enjoyment of the rights and privileges granted to them by international law, and the question of expediency should not be considered when national honor is at stake. The fact that England, placed in a similar position, would do the same as Germany, namely, make use of a weapon in a manner not countenanced by international or moral laws, does not alter the circumstances. It is facts and not possibilities with which we have to deal and the responsibility for the loss of American lives rests entirely with Germany. Therefore, Germany must be willing to suffer the consequences. If she expected to intimidate the government of the United States into acquiescence in a method of warfare without precedent and without justification other than "military necessity," she is probably disillusioned by the determined stand of the president. The duplicity of the German government in proposing an alliance with Mexico and Japan for the purpose of warring upon the United States, is the last straw. While up to this time German sympathizers in this country have been excused on the grounds that "blood is thicker than water," that argument no longer holds good. Our ire has been aroused; the possibility (remote to be sure) of an invasion of our country by armed forces of Germany, Japan and Mexico has awakened us to a sense of our responsibility to our flag; the very thought of being governed by conquering hordes and our homes destroyed is so repulsive to us, a free people, that we must necessarily, one might say unconsciously forget the petty differences that have stood between us. We are Americans first, and much as we dislike war, we will choose war as against the sacrifice of national honor. Germany, in her plan to form an alliance for operations against the United States, has only harmed herself. In effect she has pointed out our weaknesses in time for us to remedy them for future eventualities. She has turned sentiment against herself by her own acts, so that Americans are no longer divided in their judgment of right and wrong.

PAPER MILL CLOSES

Whiting-Plover Co. Compelled To Suspend Operations On Account of Sulphite Shortage.

With the supply of high grade sulphite on hand at the mill practically exhausted and no prospects of immediate arrival of shipments from the east, the Whiting-Plover Paper Co. was compelled to suspend operations Sunday morning.

No paper will be manufactured for at least a week and it may be even two weeks or more before the machines can be put in operation again. However, some of the departments are not affected by the shut-down and many of the employees in the machine and beater rooms have been given employment in repairs being made in the mill. A new floor is being installed in part of the beater room, of creosoted wood, and the machine room is being re-painted. Mill white paint is also being put on the walls and ceilings in various other departments, a spraying machine being used for this.

The operations of the company have been so heavy and so steady during the last couple of years that the opportunity to make repairs is timely. The shut-down, however, comes at a time when the demand for the company's product is at high tide, and consequently will cause some congestion when manufacturing starts again.

The Whiting-Plover Co. employs nearly 300 hands and about 100 of these are stationed in the departments in which operations have been temporarily suspended.

As stated in The Gazette last week, the sulphite used at the plant comes from Norway and the state of New Hampshire. Some shipments have been enroute here from the east since Jan. 19.

DEATH OF YOUNG MAN

Carl Hoerter Dies at Joliet, Illinois, of Typhoid-Pneumonia—Body Brought Here.

Friends of Carl Hoerter, who resided in Stevens Point most of his life and enjoyed a large and favorable acquaintance among local people, were shocked to learn of his death, which occurred at a hospital in Joliet, Ill., Sunday morning. He was sick for about a month and was a patient at the hospital during the last two weeks. He was first taken with pneumonia, but typhoid fever later developed. His brothers, John and William Hoerter of this city, left for Joliet Saturday night, in response to a message telling of his critical condition, but arrived too late to see him alive.

Carl Hoerter was born on a farm near Amherst Junction thirty years ago last August 3, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hoerter. The family home has been in this city for nearly twenty-two years. Carl, after attending the public schools, took employment in the old factory of the Western Wall Paper Co. here and became an expert in color work. When the factory was sold to a Joliet company he went there, about six years ago, and shortly afterward went to Reading, Pennsylvania, where he had charge of the color department in a similar plant. Returning to this city two years ago last fall, he was employed as carpenter in the Soo line car repair department. Last November he went to Joliet, where he worked in a wall paper factory until taken ill.

Mr. Hoerter's father died about twenty-one years ago, the surviving relatives are his mother, Mrs. Christina Hoerter, and five brothers and sisters: Michael Hoerter, Westfield and Mrs. George Lutz, John Hoerter, Mrs. William Herman and William Hoerter, all of this city.

The body arrived in this city Monday evening, accompanied by John and William Hoerter, and was taken to the residence of Mrs. Christina Hoerter, 228 Dixon street. The funeral was held this afternoon, from the residence at 2 o'clock, to Friedens church, Rev. Karl Freytag officiating. Michael Hoerter of Westfield was among those from away who attended the funeral.

MRS. A. G. PECK DIES

Lifelong Resident of County and Mother of Seventeen Children Is Summoned.

The death of Mrs. A. G. Peck, who had been ill since December 31, occurred at St. Michael's hospital at 2:10 o'clock Monday afternoon. Mrs. Peck was first taken with the grippe, and erysipelas later developed. However, her death was primarily the result of diabetes, with which she was not known to have been afflicted until recently.

Mrs. Peck was forty-eight years of age, she having been born December 24, 1868, in the town of Sharon, this county. Her maiden name was Pauline Olbrantz. She was married to A. G. Peck at St. Casimir's church in Hull February 17, 1887, and in 1893 they came to this city, which has since been the family home. Mr. Peck has for many years been in the shoe business on the public square. Prior to two months ago Mrs. Peck enjoyed excellent health and the serious nature of her illness was not at first apparent. She had a wide acquaintance in the city and her death is the cause of general sorrow.

Mrs. Peck was the mother of seventeen children, seven of whom, with their father, survive. The children are Joseph A., Frank, Leo, Regina, Paul, Helen and George Peck, all of this city and all residing at home except Joseph. Mrs. Peck also leaves seven brothers and sisters John and Alois Olbrantz, whom the family has been unable to locate; Joseph, Knowlton, Frank, Buena Vista, and Mrs. Frances Ciszewski, Mrs. William Peck and Mrs. John Lukaszewicz, city.

The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Peter's church. Rev. F. A. Nowak of Alban, a brother of Mrs. Joseph A. Peck, will be celebrant at solemn high mass, in which he will be assisted by Rev. S. A. Elbert and Rev. B. J. Walejko. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Mrs. Peck was a member of the Holy Rosary society of St. Peter's church, members of which will attend the funeral in a body.

William Demmerly, son of John Demmerly of McDill, was a member of Co. L, Wisconsin National Guard, which returned to Rhineland last week from the Mexican border. The Rhinelanders people gave the soldier boys a noisy welcome on their arrival.

The Question of Credit

Many bank patrons are unnecessarily sensitive about their credit. Business houses, large and small, are accustomed to make statements upon which to base their line of credit. A bank must be fully posted upon the resources of every borrower, but information thus gained is always held in strict confidence. When you want to borrow money, be prepared to give us the information upon which to base a loan, and we will gladly extend the credit your condition and balances with us justify. That is one of the things we are in business for.

NEW ELECTION LAWS.

County Clerk A. E. Bourn yesterday sent out circular letters to town and village clerks calling their attention to changes made in the election laws by the legislature last October. Where caucuses are held they must be not less than 15 days before election, whereas the old law provided that they be held not less than nine days before election. Where nominations are by nomination papers, the papers must be filed not less than 12 days before election instead of seven. The law regarding the filing of nomination papers is practically the same in cities.

The sudden death of Adam Malenowski, a farmer residing in the northwest corner of Dewey township, near the Marathon county line, last night, under suspicious circumstances, resulted in an investigation being started today. District Attorney Pfiffner, Coroner Boston, Sheriff Kobisiak and Dr. A. E. MacMillan left this noon for the Malenowski home, but nothing has been learned as to what has been found.

Malenowski, according to information received here at 11 o'clock this morning, was taken sick yesterday and died in the night. The circumstances were deemed worthy of a thorough investigation to determine whether death was the result of foul play, suicide or natural causes.

Malenowski was 52 years of age and has a wife and nine children. The oldest child, Leon, aged 20, was arrested last November for aiming a gun at his father and threatening to shoot him. He pleaded guilty in justice court here and was assessed a nominal fine.

Last fall Malenowski began divorce proceedings against his wife, but their differences were amicably adjusted and they agreed to live together again. It is understood one of the conditions in the settlement was that the son, Leon, was not to remain at home.

The family trouble seemed to be largely between the father and son, although the relations of the husband and wife are said to have been none too friendly.

The youngest child is four years of age.

"HOT SCHOOL LUNCHEES"

(Miss Maynard Downes)

"I can't tell you what the Hot Lunch has meant to my school," writes a rural school teacher. "We started serving last fall. We had a social to raise the money for equipment. Some of the fathers and mothers were skeptical over this 'New Notion' of cooking in the school house. Now, however, they are enthusiastic as I am. After several months of serving hot lunches, I find that my pupils look better and do better work than they did last year. The afternoon work does not drag as it formerly did. There are less than thirty in my number of 'tired out' and 'listless' pupils."

The hot lunch in rural schools has both a social and educational value. For the child who must carry his noon meal, the addition of a hot dish means increased body nourishment and a more renewed zest for the remainder of the afternoon.

The lack of food, to supplement which the child has brought from home, is met daily by the pupils each day, under the direction of the teacher. This may be cocoa, a creamed soup, a cereal cereal, or even potatoes and other vegetables prepared in various ways. The preparation of the hot dish may be included in the cooking lessons which are now a part of the instruction in many rural schools.

The teacher is given an opportunity to teach her pupils correct table behavior. A taste for simple, wholesome foods, in preference to highly seasoned, poorly cooked, or otherwise indigestible food may be cultivated in the school, and coffee, pickles, pie, and other articles not desirable for children may be gradually eliminated.

When the children bring plates, cups, spoons, etc., from home, the equipment necessary for serving from twenty to thirty pupils costs about $10.00. Material used in preparation of the hot dish is usually furnished by the children in turn. The expense and work required to serve a hot lunch is inconsiderable. The direct benefit to the children and the indirect profit to the community are great.

The Hot Lunch idea is spreading rapidly through the rural schools of Wisconsin. It is comparatively an innovation, yet its benefit is so pronounced that each day adds to the number of schools adopting it.

Because of his advanced age the wife has for a long time been the business manager. From remarks she had made at times neighbors believed that she had some money about the house. She had some. She had it stored away in every conceivable hiding place. Every nook gave up its hoard of coins and bills. A bank clerk was called in and helped and the accumulations from bureau drawers, mattresses, holes and like places totaled over $2,000. It wasn't drawing any interest but the principal was certainly all there.

NORMALS MEET DEFEAT

River Falls Basketball Team Triumphs Over Local Squad in Fiercely Contested Game.

The Stevens Point Normal basketball team was handed defeat at River Falls last Thursday evening by the quintet representing the River Falls Normal by the score of 24 to 14. The locals had won nine consecutive games and had they been successful in the final contest would have been the undisputed champions of the northern division of Wisconsin Normal schools. As a result of Stevens Point's defeat, the honors now are evenly divided between the two schools and another game will be played, on the Stout Institute floor at Menomonie, to decide the championship.

The first half resulted in a score of 7 to 6 in favor of River Falls. Neither team had a decisive advantage and close guarding on the part of both teams was responsible for the low score. In the second half River Falls added seventeen points, while the locals tallied eight. Pushing and holding on the part of the northerners, who resorted to rough tactics, added a disadvantage to Corneal's team. The locals did not reach their destination until 7:45 o'clock Thursday evening and began playing one hour after their arrival. They had ridden all of that day and were not in the best of condition from their long trip.

The team lined up as follows: Giedlinski, Hertz, forwards; Pope, center; Shalberg, Stewart, guards. Reynolds, Burns and Smith were taken as substitutes and Henry Tetzlaff, Howard Abrahamson and Albert Johnson also accompanied the squad. The River Falls quintet lined up with Betzel and Thorp, forwards; Eggebrecht, center; Peterson and Rice, guards.

How to Prevent Croup.

When the child is subject to attacks of croup, see to it that he eats a light evening meal, as an overladen stomach may bring on an attack, also watch for the first symptoms of hoarseness, and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the child becomes hoarse. Obtainable everywhere.

POTATO GROWERS MEET.

A meeting of the Bancroft Potato Growers' association was held at Bancroft yesterday, when County Agent Coyner conferred with the members relative to the outlook for the coming year. Mr. Coyner went to Bancroft Monday morning and, besides attending the meeting, discussed local conditions with Chairman Frank J. Pratt of Pine Grove and tested a number of cattle.

MEETINGS WERE PROFITABLE.

That the live stock and soils institutes held at Junction City and Custer last week were profitable from the standpoint of better farming is indicated by the fact that a number of the farmers who attended them announced their intention of keeping dairy records and growing soy beans. The Custer meeting, held Thursday and Friday, was as great a success as those held at Junction City Tuesday and Wednesday, the attendance being large and the interest gratifying.

HOME TALENT PLAY.

The home talent play, "Uncle Ephraim's Summer Boarders," presented at Hardina's hall in Junction City Saturday evening by students of the public school, assisted by other local residents, was well carried out and largely attended. The play is a novelty in three acts and the cast included about twenty persons, under the direction of the Misses Mabel Sheldahl and Inez Swenson. Miss Elizabeth McGorty, county superintending teacher, gave a vocal solo, and a number of other musical numbers were rendered between acts. As a result of the play $24 was realized as a fund for the purchase of new school equipment.

APPLY FOR BONUSES.

Forty-four applications for special state aid for rural school teachers have been filed with County Superintendent Bannach by Portage county teachers. The applications will be checked up by Miss Bannach, who will make recommendations to State Superintendent Cary, basing these on reports on the work of teachers from various sources, her own observation of teachers' work and their interest in teachers' institutes. All rural school teachers who serve more than one year in the same school are eligible to share in the distribution of state funds, in addition to their regular salaries. Teachers whose applications are granted are paid as follows: second year, $2 per month; third year, $4 per month; third and subsequent years, $6 per month. Last year 26 Portage county teachers received bonuses, but the number this year will be materially larger. Competent service is the requirement imposed.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS of INTEREST

Nine local ladies, members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Order of Railway Conductors, were guests of Mrs. A. Burt and Mrs. M. J. O'Brien at the home of Mrs. O'Brien at Owen last Wednesday evening. The affair was a dinner party, followed by a reception, and other guests included Mrs. V. U. Ballou and Mrs. John Ray of Abbotford. Those from here who attended were Mesdames J. H. Eubanks, M. D. Vinkle, W. C. Kalka, J. E. Fisher, Ralph Meeks, A. B. Crepo, H. Krueger, F. M. Reinhardt and Thomas Matthews.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Oberlatz were tendered a farewell party Sunday evening at their home on Clark street by the members of a "500" club to which they belong. The event was intended as a surprise and would have been the ice cream, ordered by O. H. Christenson, not been delivered before the arrival of the club members. Nevertheless a pleasant evening was spent, with four tables in play at 500, prizes being won by Dr. E. M. Rogers and Mrs. W. A. Stewart.

A large attendance was recorded at a meeting of the Woman's Club Saturday afternoon, when the following program was carried out: Vocal solo, A. J. Miller, accompanied by Mrs. James Blake; talks on "Gardening for Committee Improvement," Mr. Bertha Sherman, Mrs. O. W. Neale, Mrs. George A. Whitney; address, "The Hygiene of the Special Senses," Dr. J. W. Bird; vocal solo, Mrs. Elmer Austin, accompanied by Miss Lillian Rivers; piano solo, Miss Lillian Rivers. A committee composed of Mrs. W. S. Powell, Mrs. C. E. Baker and Mrs. C. E. Shortell was appointed to investigate the plan of penny lunches for school children for this city and to select others to assist in this work.

Press notices which appeared in last Monday's Chicago papers were highly complimentary to Miss Winifred Lamb, who gave a recital at the Playhouse, under the auspices of the Columbia School of Music, last Sunday afternoon. The Playhouse, which is one of Chicago's new theatres, has a seating capacity of 800, and practically every seat was occupied for Miss Lamb's recital, and this in view of the fact that there were five other prominent entertainments in the city taking place at the same time, thus allowing the critics time for only a short stay at every one of them. The comments of the critics were distinctly favorable and the audience was a most appreciative one.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Olingy, Mrs. E. W. Behnke, Mrs. E. G. Reissler, Mrs. J. E. Fisher, Mrs. B. A. Johnson, Mrs. Vernon Allen, Mrs. T. J. Brown and Mrs. M. A. Wheeler attended a meeting of the Marshfield Lodge of the Mystic Workers of the World at Marshfield last Saturday evening. Degree work was exemplified with a class of ten candidates and a supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Bloom, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldberg, Abe Shafon and Miss Sarah Fischer of this city attended a celebration carried out at Wausau Sunday by Wausau Lodge No. 670, I. O. B. B., in commemoration of its organization. Morning, afternoon and evening meetings were held and there were various entertainment features. A large class of candidates was also conducted into the order. Among the many present from outside points was Miss Esther Fischer, who is employed in Antigo.

WAS NATIVE OF CITY.

Dispatches from Toledo, Ohio, Monday announced the death of Walter J. Cavanaugh, a former resident of Kenosha and native of Stevens Point, as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident. Mr. Cavanaugh was a son of James Cavanaugh, an early day Stevens Point attorney, member of the firm of Barnes & Cavanaugh, and was born here Aug. 22, 1878. He was a star football player at the University of Chicago and was once chosen on the All-American honorary eleven. He married Miss Edith M. Brown, daughter of Charles C. Brown, president of the First National bank at Kenosha, where the funeral was held yesterday.

There are at present five local houses under quarantine, four for scarlet fever and one for diphtheria. The number of patients is 12, including one family that has five afflicted with diphtheria and one with scarlet fever.

NORMAL NOTES.

Prof. O. W. Neale will conduct an institute at Westby, Vernon county, on Saturday of this week.

Pres. John F. Sims will deliver an address at Coloma on Friday of this week.

Miss Harriet Johnson of Colby, who completed her work at the Normal at the close of the first semester, has taken a position as primary teacher in the public schools of Kenosha.

At a meeting of the Forum-Athenaeum society held Tuesday evening the following officers were elected for the fourth quarter of the school year: President, George Card, vice-president, John Ambrose, secretary, Thomas King, treasurer, Clyde Morley, servant, A. Neuwald.

Miss Ida Brevard received a telegram Saturday evening from Menomonie Wis., announcing the death of her father E. K. Brevard. The deceased had been in failing health for over a year, and death was caused by cancer. Miss Brevard left Saturday evening for her home to attend the funeral which will be held tomorrow.

How Diana Scored.

In "Milton and Home-Run" is this amusing English fox hunting story. "Hold hard, maiden! For heaven's sake hold hard or that game you are riding will be the death of some of my hounds!" cried the choicer master of one of the southeastern counties' packs of foxhounds to a lady who was riding rather too close to hounds.

Without deigning to turn her head she steered her mount a little to the left and clear of the hounds rode her own line like a centaur, led the van through a long and very fast run and was the first of the field to see the fox rolled over in the open.

Having recovered from his temporary fit of churlishness and delighted with the manner in which the lady had ridden, the master approached her somewhat sheepishly it must be confessed, with the "brush" and an apology.

"Pray, don't apologize, sir," was the smiling reply. "You simply mistook my favorite hunter for a camel, and I your foxhounds for fox terriers. It seems we were both mistaken. Thanks awfully for the brush."

Practical People.

A tourist found himself in a German village far out of the beaten track of his kind. There was, however, a Linden tree in the village square. The tree was plastered over with advertisements like this: "Get Your House Furnishings at Ober's," "Engagement Rings—A Marvelous Selection at Luebling's, the Watchmaker and Jeweler," "Kitchen Utensils at Muller's," "Just the Place For Your Wedding Breakfast The Little Dining Room in the Post Hotel," and so forth. The stranger read the advertisements at tentatively.

"And why," asked he, turning to a villager who stood by, "why is this linen used as a billboard?" "Simplest thing in the world," replied the villager. "All the courting couples come here and cut their names in the bark of this tree. There right before them are the addresses of the very people they'll need to set 'em up in housekeeping once they decide to get married."—New York Post.

Hands That Make Beauty.

The father of Saint Gaudens, the sculptor, was a bootmaker and put the same enthusiasm into making a good boot that his son put into modeling statues. Millions are spent on paintings and sculptures, but just as many millions are spent on other productions of the human hand and brain. They may not be classed as works of art, yet are they the beautiful handicraft of men and women. The products of the cabinet makers of the eighteenth century, the weaving of the Hindu men and women since the days of the Arabian Nights, the laces and tapestries worked by peasant girls, nuns or queens, the creations of the potter, the brassmonger, the ironmonger, the silversmith, the goldsmith, the printer and the bookbinder were wrought by joyful workers, and millionaires compete with kings to possess them.—Boston Globe.

Profane Dancing.

Harriet Beecher Stowe records that in her girlhood she and her friends used to dance a jig entitled "Go to the Devil and Shake Yourself." This dance must have enjoyed a long spell of popularity. The first Duke of Buckingham and Chandos was indignant when, desiring to attend an assembly ball at Alresford, his request for a dance, addressed to a local rector's wife, met with the reply, "Go to the Devil and Shake Yourself!" He complained to the rector, and it then transpired that the lady, who was somewhat deaf, thought his grace had asked her what dance was then being played. This incident occurred in 1796, and twenty years later Crabbe, in his "Tales," animadverted on a bookdealer for stocking the music of a dance with such a profane title.—Manchester Courier.

It Boared Him.

After spending a few weeks one year at a watering place, where he took his daily swim in the open air pool of warm sulphur water, a little fellow was the next year at the seaside. In his tiny bathing suit he gazed out over the vast ocean in silence.

Then he protested: "I'm not going in. Dat ain't water for boys. Dat's for boats."—Chicago News.

Good Time Lost.

"Why do you insist upon having the biggest piece of pie, Harry?" asked the mother of a small boy. "Isn't your older brother entitled to it?"

"No, he isn't," replied the little fellow. "He was eating pie two years before I was born."—Chicago News.

FIGHT FOR TITLE

Stevens Point and River Falls Normals To Settle Basketball Championship Soon.

The tie between Stevens Point and River Falls for the basketball championship of the northern divisions of Wisconsin Normal schools will be played off on the Stout floor at Menomonie either on Saturday evening of this week or the following Monday evening, Coach George D. Corneal announced this morning.

Both schools have agreed on the place for the contest and have engaged Howard Buck of Madison to officiate, but the decision between the two dates remains unsettled. River Falls has made every effort to arrange the game at as early a date as possible, while Mr. Corneal has given conclusive reasons why the later date should be agreed upon. In addition to several injuries sustained recently by the local players necessitating an extension of time, Coach Corneal will referee all of the games of the sectional high school basketball tournament, which starts tomorrow. In the event of a Saturday evening Normal game, he would be unable to conduct the local tournament.

The deadlock will probably be broken this evening or tomorrow when final arrangements will be made for the championship contest.

Later—it was announced this afternoon that the game will be played on Monday evening, March 12.

NOTICE TO MILK DEALERS.

The ordinance relating to the sale of milk in the city of Stevens Point will be strictly enforced beginning April 1. The ordinance requires that licenses be taken out by milk dealers by April 1. In order to procure licenses, certificates signed by some recognized authority must be presented showing that all cows have been tested and found free from tuberculosis.

The Mikado's Title.

The ruler of Japan really should be called ten-o, not mikado. The latter means "royal gate" and is a title somewhat similar to sublime porte, which is used indifferently to mean the Turkish sultan, his government or the country itself. Ten-o means "heaven's highest," a title surpassing all the most grandiloquent European efforts. The original Japanese equivalent for ten-o is soumelamikoto, but the former is universally used, perhaps on account of its brevity.

TWO FOR SUPERINTENDENT

Lancelot A. Gordon and Miss Loretta Boursier File Papers—Will Be Four Ballots.

Miss Loretta Boursier and Lancelot A. Gordon filed their nomination papers for the office of superintendent of schools of Portage county with County Clerk A. E. Bourn last Saturday, the time limit set by law. The election will be held April 3.

There will be four tickets for every town, city and village at the coming election. In the city one ticket will be for city officials, one for judicial, one for men voters for state superintendent and one for women voters for state superintendent. In towns and villages there will be one ticket for local officers, one for judicial candidates, one for men voters for state and county superintendents and one for women voters for state and county superintendents. The city voters do not have a voice in the election of county superintendent.

C. P. Cary is opposed for reelection as state superintendent. For justice of the supreme court, R. J. Marshall is opposed for reelection by Walter C. Owen.

The names of Mr. Gordon and Miss Boursier for county superintendent will be printed, so that one will come first on one set of ballots and the other on another set.

We're All Actors.

Mme. Alexandra Varda, the Polish tragedienne, once propounded the following:

"It is a strange thing, but ask a man to mend a rip in his coat."

"No; he is not a tailor."

"Ask another to stop the faucet from leaking."

"No; he is not a plumber."

"Or another to do a bit of cabinet work."

"No; he is not a carpenter."

"But ask any one of the three or all of them to enact a little part in a play and each will smile in fatuous confidence and instantly acquiesce."

"But watch him act!"

CIVIC & COMMERCE ASSOCIATION FORMED

Booster Organization Makes Debut.
With P. J. Jacobs as President —Is Incorporated.

THE OFFICERS
President—P. J. Jacobs
Vice President—E. B. Robertson
Treasurer—Fred Copps

THE DIRECTORS
Three Years—John J. Bukolt, Fred Copps, C. E. Urbahna.
Two Years—E. B. Robertson, P. J. Jacobs, W. B. Angelo.
One Year—J. J. Normington, H. D. Boston, W. E. Fisher.

Founded on sound business principles and incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin, a new local organization, christened the Civic & Commerce association, made its debut last Friday night.

The objects of the association were stated as follows in a resolution presented by Charles H. Cashin: "To improve local business conditions, to foster the interests of our present industries, to approve or disapprove of measures concerning the community, and in general protect the citizens in every way possible."

The directors elected that evening, listed above, met on Friday and elected the officers provided for, with the exception of the secretary, and on Monday the articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state at Madison.

The secretary will be a paid official. Around him the activities of the association will revolve and the selection of the man for the place will be made only after careful investigation by the directors. The secretary will either devote all or part of his time to the work and may be a local resident or from some outside place. The final disposition of this matter will be determined largely by the financial status of the association.

Membership in the association is in three classifications, individuals, partnerships and corporations, and sustaining members. The annual dues for individuals are $12; for partnerships and corporations, $24, and for sustaining members, $50. Corporations and partnerships paying $24 are allowed two memberships and sustaining members four memberships.

Although last Friday's meeting was given no advance publicity, an informal committee had been at work for several weeks on details of the organization and had investigated the workings of similar bodies in other cities. As a result everything was in readiness for definite action and the program was carried through without a discordant note.

There were 45 representative business men at the meeting and each of them signed his name to the membership list. The total number of memberships signed for was 66, with the Jackson Milling Co., represented by C. F. Haertel, leading the way with three.

Since the meeting many who were not present have expressed their approval of the new organization and pledged their support. As soon as possible committees will be appointed. The membership committee will then begin a systematic campaign and it is believed that it will be little trouble to sign up at least as many more members as the original list includes.

P. J. Jacobs was elected chairman of Friday's meeting and L. J. Seeger secretary. Mr. Jacobs gave an address outlining the aims of the association, which is printed elsewhere in this issue of The Gazette.

At the conclusion of Mr. Jacobs' speech, Charles H. Cashin's resolution providing for the organization and incorporation of the Civic & Commerce association was unanimously carried. A constitution and set of by-laws were also adopted.

During the discussions that took place a number of business men presented their views. On motion of W. J. Gabryszak it was voted to designate members of the association by number, in order that its activities may advertise the association only and not individual members. Mr. Gabryszak stated this plan had been successfully followed in eastern cities. It met with instant favor among the members of the local association.

The Civic & Commerce association is organized for the good of the entire city and membership in it is not restricted to any class of citizens. All who are interested in a better Stevens Point are eligible to join; the larger the membership, the stronger the association and the greater the results.

Be ready when the membership committee starts its work.

MADE BIG COLLECTION.

A total of $30,161 was collected in taxes by City Treasurer F. E. Boyer last Wednesday, the last day for paying taxes without penalty. Beginning Thursday a 2 per cent collection fee is being charged and Treasurer Boyer will accept payments on this basis until March 22, when he will make his delinquent returns to the county treasurer.

IS COMING HOME.

Messages received from Dr. John E. McDill, a former Portage county resident, who has been in charge of an army hospital in Germany, are to the effect that he is on his way back to America. Dr. McDill, whose home is in Milwaukee, accompanied Ambassador Gerard's party out of Germany after diplomatic relations were broken.

The government collected over $31,000,000 last year on 25,233,000,000 cigarettes, a quota of more than 900 to every man of voting age in the country. The statistician neglected to include women and children in among the cigarette consumers in making this average. That would change the quota markedly, more to the shame of the women.

FOR UNITED AMERICA

President Wilson, In Inaugural Address, Appeals For Unity of Thought, Spirit and Action.

Washington, D. C., March 5.—President Wilson sounded a new doctrine of internationalism and world peace in his inaugural address today, but in the same breath warned that the United States may require "a more immediate association" with the war than mere armed neutrality.

He spoke of a unity of American thought, spirit and action, and voiced the view that this may be an Americanism steeped in world spirit, instead of the isolated national view of the past.

World Peace Essentials.

His principal plea for world peace, spoken before thousands attending his second inauguration, called for: Limitation of world armaments.

Equal interest and responsibility of all nations for maintaining peace.

Equality of all nations in matters of right or privilege.

Destruction of the "armed balance of power."

That all the world should support no other power than the view that "governments derive all their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Freedom of the sea equal to all.

Crushing of any attempts within a nation to organize or assist a revolution against another nation.

Peace Is Coming Soon.

Electric with the spirit of patriotism, of a new world unity, the speech solemnly suggested that, despite the war fires raging and despite the possibility that this nation must take a broader hand, still that peace is coming soon.

"The shadows that now lie dark upon our path will soon be dispelled," the president declared.

Armed neutrality is our stand, he said, yet this may not suffice.

"We have been obliged to arm ourselves to make good our claim to a certain minimum of right and of freedom of action," he declared on this subject.

"We stand firm in armed neutrality since it seems that in no other way can we demonstrate what it is we insist upon and cannot forego."

Warns Of The Future.

A hush followed this. Then gravely he continued:

"We may even be drawn on by circumstances not by our own purpose or desire to a more active assertion of our rights as we see them, and a more immediate association with the great struggle itself."

Any such step, he assured, will be with unselfish purpose—"not with any view of conquest or national aggrandizement."

The United States cannot, if it wishes, longer stand apart in isolation—it must regard itself as a world entity, think and act in terms of this world spirit.
